BRANCHE: AUTOMOTIVE / LOCATIONS: DETROIT (MI, USA)

Android Automotive Developer (m/f/d)

WHAT YOU'LL DO

- At P3, we build advanced infotainment systems for some of the world's biggest automotive OEMs. We specialize in Android Automotive OS (AAOS) and lead end-to-end development for complex, in-vehicle digital experiences. If you're passionate about cutting-edge tech and want to shape how millions of people interact with their cars — this is the place for you. We're looking for an Android Automotive Developer with deep experience in Android and a drive to define high-quality, scalable solutions for automotive infotainment.
- Design and build advanced applications for the AAOS platform
- Collaborate with cross-functional teams to define, design, and deliver new features

WHO YOU ARE

- University degree in computer science or a comparable course of study.
- At least 5 years of experience in writing professional production code for Android platforms.
- Very good knowledge of writing, maintaining and testing Android code in Java/Kotlin (C++ is a big plus).
- Deep knowledge of AAOS architecture and practical experience with extending Android (system services, HALs, SDK extensions), Soong build system and Android development tools or high motivation to deep dive into these topics quickly.
- Deep knowledge of Android app architecture
- Experience using OO methodologies in designing software solutions
- Experience in Testing, in particular Unit & UI testing
- Understanding of an agile work environment (Scrum and SAFe)
- Understanding of CI/CD environment tools (i.e.: Git, Gitlab, etc.)
